PROFILE

I'm a young, passionate filmmaker looking to take the first steps into the film industry by gaining valuable work experience where I can apply the skills I've learnt to the real world of film. I'm a hard working team player who's always looking to learn and progress as a filmmaker and as a person. I always bring a positive energy and outlook to every project I work on, and I love being a role model for others. I'm confident at managing groups of people, and I enjoy getting everyone to work effectively as a team. My skills are versatile as a result of my varying experiences in different departments of film, and I will live up to the professional standard that I know the filmmaking industry demands.
